What Are the Blogging Guidelines I Must Follow?

At DICloak, we want every blog post to deliver practical value and fresh insights. Contributors should focus on teaching readers how to enhance their skills in secure account management, scale their campaigns effectively, and boost overall efficiency. Each article should go beyond theory and provide clear, actionable takeaways that readers can apply right away.

- Relevant Education for DICloak Users: Topics should be broadly useful and relevant to our audience. If a subject benefits only a small portion of users, we may request adjustments or explore an alternative approach.
- High-Quality Writing: All submissions must meet DICloak's editorial standards. Our editors reserve the right to review, edit, and adapt content to ensure clarity, accuracy, and consistency.
- Length Requirement: Articles should be between 500–1500 words, providing enough depth while remaining concise and engaging.
- Links: You may include up to 2 do-follow backlinks to your site within the body of your post, as long as they are relevant and valuable to readers. To ensure the quality of our backlinks and maintain the overall health of our site, all link requests must come from websites with more than 50K monthly visits and be aligned with our niches.
- Original Images: Any images included must be original. We do not accept stock or unlicensed images.

🚩 There are some things we simply can't accept. We will not feature:

- Anything that may be construed as a link-building scheme.
- Anything that's offensive or inaccurate.
- Anything that's overly critical of individuals or companies.
